

BLUE RIDGE PUBLIC SAFETY

Volume 1/Issue 2

January 2016

BRRR!!! Winter cold brings beautiful scenery.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

2016 is upon the Valley and with it brought frigid temperatures as well as a significant snow event. Not every snow event impacts travel as much as the snow events the week of January 18, 2016 but it is imperative that you understand your property manager hires the crew for snow/ice removal. Those crews do the best they can to clear the many miles of communities and it does take time. Our Communications Center is an Emergency contact first and foremost but we do try to be available to answer your questions about road conditions. The NC DOT also maintains local road conditions information and you can access that by dialing 511 or you can call the Jackson County Emergency Management line at 828-631-HELP.

From the Chief's desk

One of the most important things you can do when you are away from your valley home is to ensure your home security is established and enacted. With the many years of experience our staff has in law enforcement we can be an asset to you in determining your home's security needs.

My staff and I are available to complete a thorough security inspection and recommendation for your home by appointment. This inspection addresses not only security protection against intruders but also addresses site security regarding obtrusive objects or potentially hazardous items around your home.

Please contact my assistant and office manager, Brenna Holland, if you are interested in setting up an appointment.

Roy G. Taylor
Chief of Police

THIS QUARTER’S HIGHLIGHTED SERVICE

One complimentary house visit for all homeowners in a contracted community:

Remember that winter in the Valley does not usually take hold until the beginning of the New Year and can last well into April. We have even seen snow in June before! If you have left the Valley for the year and are concerned about anything in your home please call the Communications Center to see about arranging with our staff to take care of that concern for you. We will discuss with you how best to address the concern, be it a gas line feared left open or the possibility of busted water pipes, and will attempt to check it out for you one complimentary time.

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO KNOW?

Many people in the Valley admit to being confused about the services provided by Blue Ridge Public Safety and our purpose for being here. Perhaps you are one of those people or perhaps you are curious about the extent of services we offer. Whatever the case may be we encourage you to reach out to our patrolmen, police officers, office manager and Chiefs of staff to ask those questions. It is okay to stop an officer/patrolman during his routine patrol to inquire and in fact we really want that interaction so please do.
